

Annual Report 2015/2016

The University of California at Santa Barbara (UCSB) is as beautiful as you'd imagine: blue skies, palm trees, buildings that literally sit on the beach, and light everywhere. The spiritual climate is less predictable than the year-round perfect weather, however. Though InterVarsity has existed on campus since 1947, the chapter has swelled and shrunk as culture has changed through the decades. In the 2015/2016 year, two staff members and six student leaders faithfully prayed, invited friends to study Scripture, and grew as disciples themselves in order to reach more of their campus with God's love.

Every InterVarsity chapter—all 1,011 of them—must navigate their unique campus culture, broader cultural and global shifts, and changing student and faculty populations. Ministry looks different on different campuses. But shared strategies and values—particularly a commitment to Bible study, prayer, and evangelism—continue to constitute the life of InterVarsity chapters.

And our great God who is present on every campus in every generation continues to move in hearts and draw students and faculty to himself. May his name be lifted up and spread in mighty ways in the years to come.

For God's glory,

Tom Lin
Chief Executive Officer, President

InterVarsity marked 75 years of campus ministry in 2016, and welcomed Tom Lin as our eighth president on August 10, 2016.

God's work at UCSB in 2015/2016 provides a glimpse into the ways he is transforming students and faculty through InterVarsity, from Maine to Texas to Alaska. As staff members like Matt Rogers and Melissa Nguyen disciple students, as student leaders like those pictured in the following pages take risks for Jesus, and as ministry partners provide much-needed resources, campuses like UCSB are being renewed.

The gospel is going forth. The Light of the World is moving in hearts. And it is truly beautiful.

The present campus of the University of California, Santa Barbara, sits on the Pacific coast in a former military base that was acquired by the school in 1949. Today more than 23,000 students are enrolled.

41,007 core
participants.

27,289 students met in InterVarsity small groups to study Scripture together.

---

“There was so much more than just sitting together reading the Bible. It’s community. They’re growing. I’m growing. I’m teaching them as well as they’re teaching me. And then there was so much laughter and joy and love, and it was great. I don’t know what’s exactly going to happen in heaven, but if we happen to study the Bible in heaven, I have an idea of what it’s going to look like and how fun it’s going to be.”

—Dejanae Allen, small group leader, on the Black Campus Ministries small group she led

Ministries Bible study in the Black
Scholars Hall at UCSB.

GROWING IN FAITH
THROUGH

DEPENDING ON GOD
IN PRAYER

12,690 InterVarsity students were involved in regular corporate prayer, up 12 percent from 5 years ago.

---

“I would always go to the events that InterVarsity had but I had no idea how much went into it. They pray consistently, and sometimes they fast for the event, and it required so much more than I expected. . . . But now that I’m [a leader], it’s like, we start planning, preparing, doing this, doing that, praying about it.”

—Jairo Mendina, small group leader, on what he has learned about leadership

All InterVarsity chapters hold prayer meetings. The chapter leaders at UCSB hold their prayer meeting at noon each Tuesday in the middle of campus.

10,727 InterVarsity students were trained to share their faith and invite others to follow Jesus, and 46,155 non-Christians attended InterVarsity evangelistic events.

“Every student leader knows that one week during the quarter they’ll be asked to make a call to faith—whether that’s in a one-on-one type of relationship, a small group relationship or Bible study, or even at a large group. We train them in how to make calls to faith and how to better disciple new believers. . . . I’ve seen my students come through with flying colors in the ability to take a risk and share the invitation to follow Jesus.”

—Matt Rogers, InterVarsity staff member, on developing students as evangelists

InterVarsity staff member Matt (far left) and chapter leaders engage UCSB students in spiritual conversations using the Hope Proxe, an interactive display that invites discussion about justice and reconciliation.

TAKING RISKS FOR JESUS IN EVANGELISM

DEVELOPING LEADERS
TO OBEY
GOD'S CALL

8,016 InterVarsity student leaders were developed through training events around the country.

---

“They wanted me since my freshman year to be on the leadership team, but I wasn’t ready. It wasn’t until this year where I felt like God was telling me, ‘No, go do it.’”

—Jairo Mendina, small group leader, on obedience to God

InterVarsity staff member Matt gives student leaders contact cards after an outreach event so they can follow up with those they met and invite them to large group later that night.

Each week 20,849 students attended InterVarsity large group gatherings on their campus.

“Coming into college I never thought of myself as a leader, because I kind of viewed it as having really good leadership skills and being very extroverted and being really good at public speaking. I definitely was not that. But after learning more about Jesus’ character and seeing that he takes you as you are, I really questioned what leadership is. It was just inspiring to know that I could be a leader, but not in the way that I initially thought, but more with the skills that I have.”

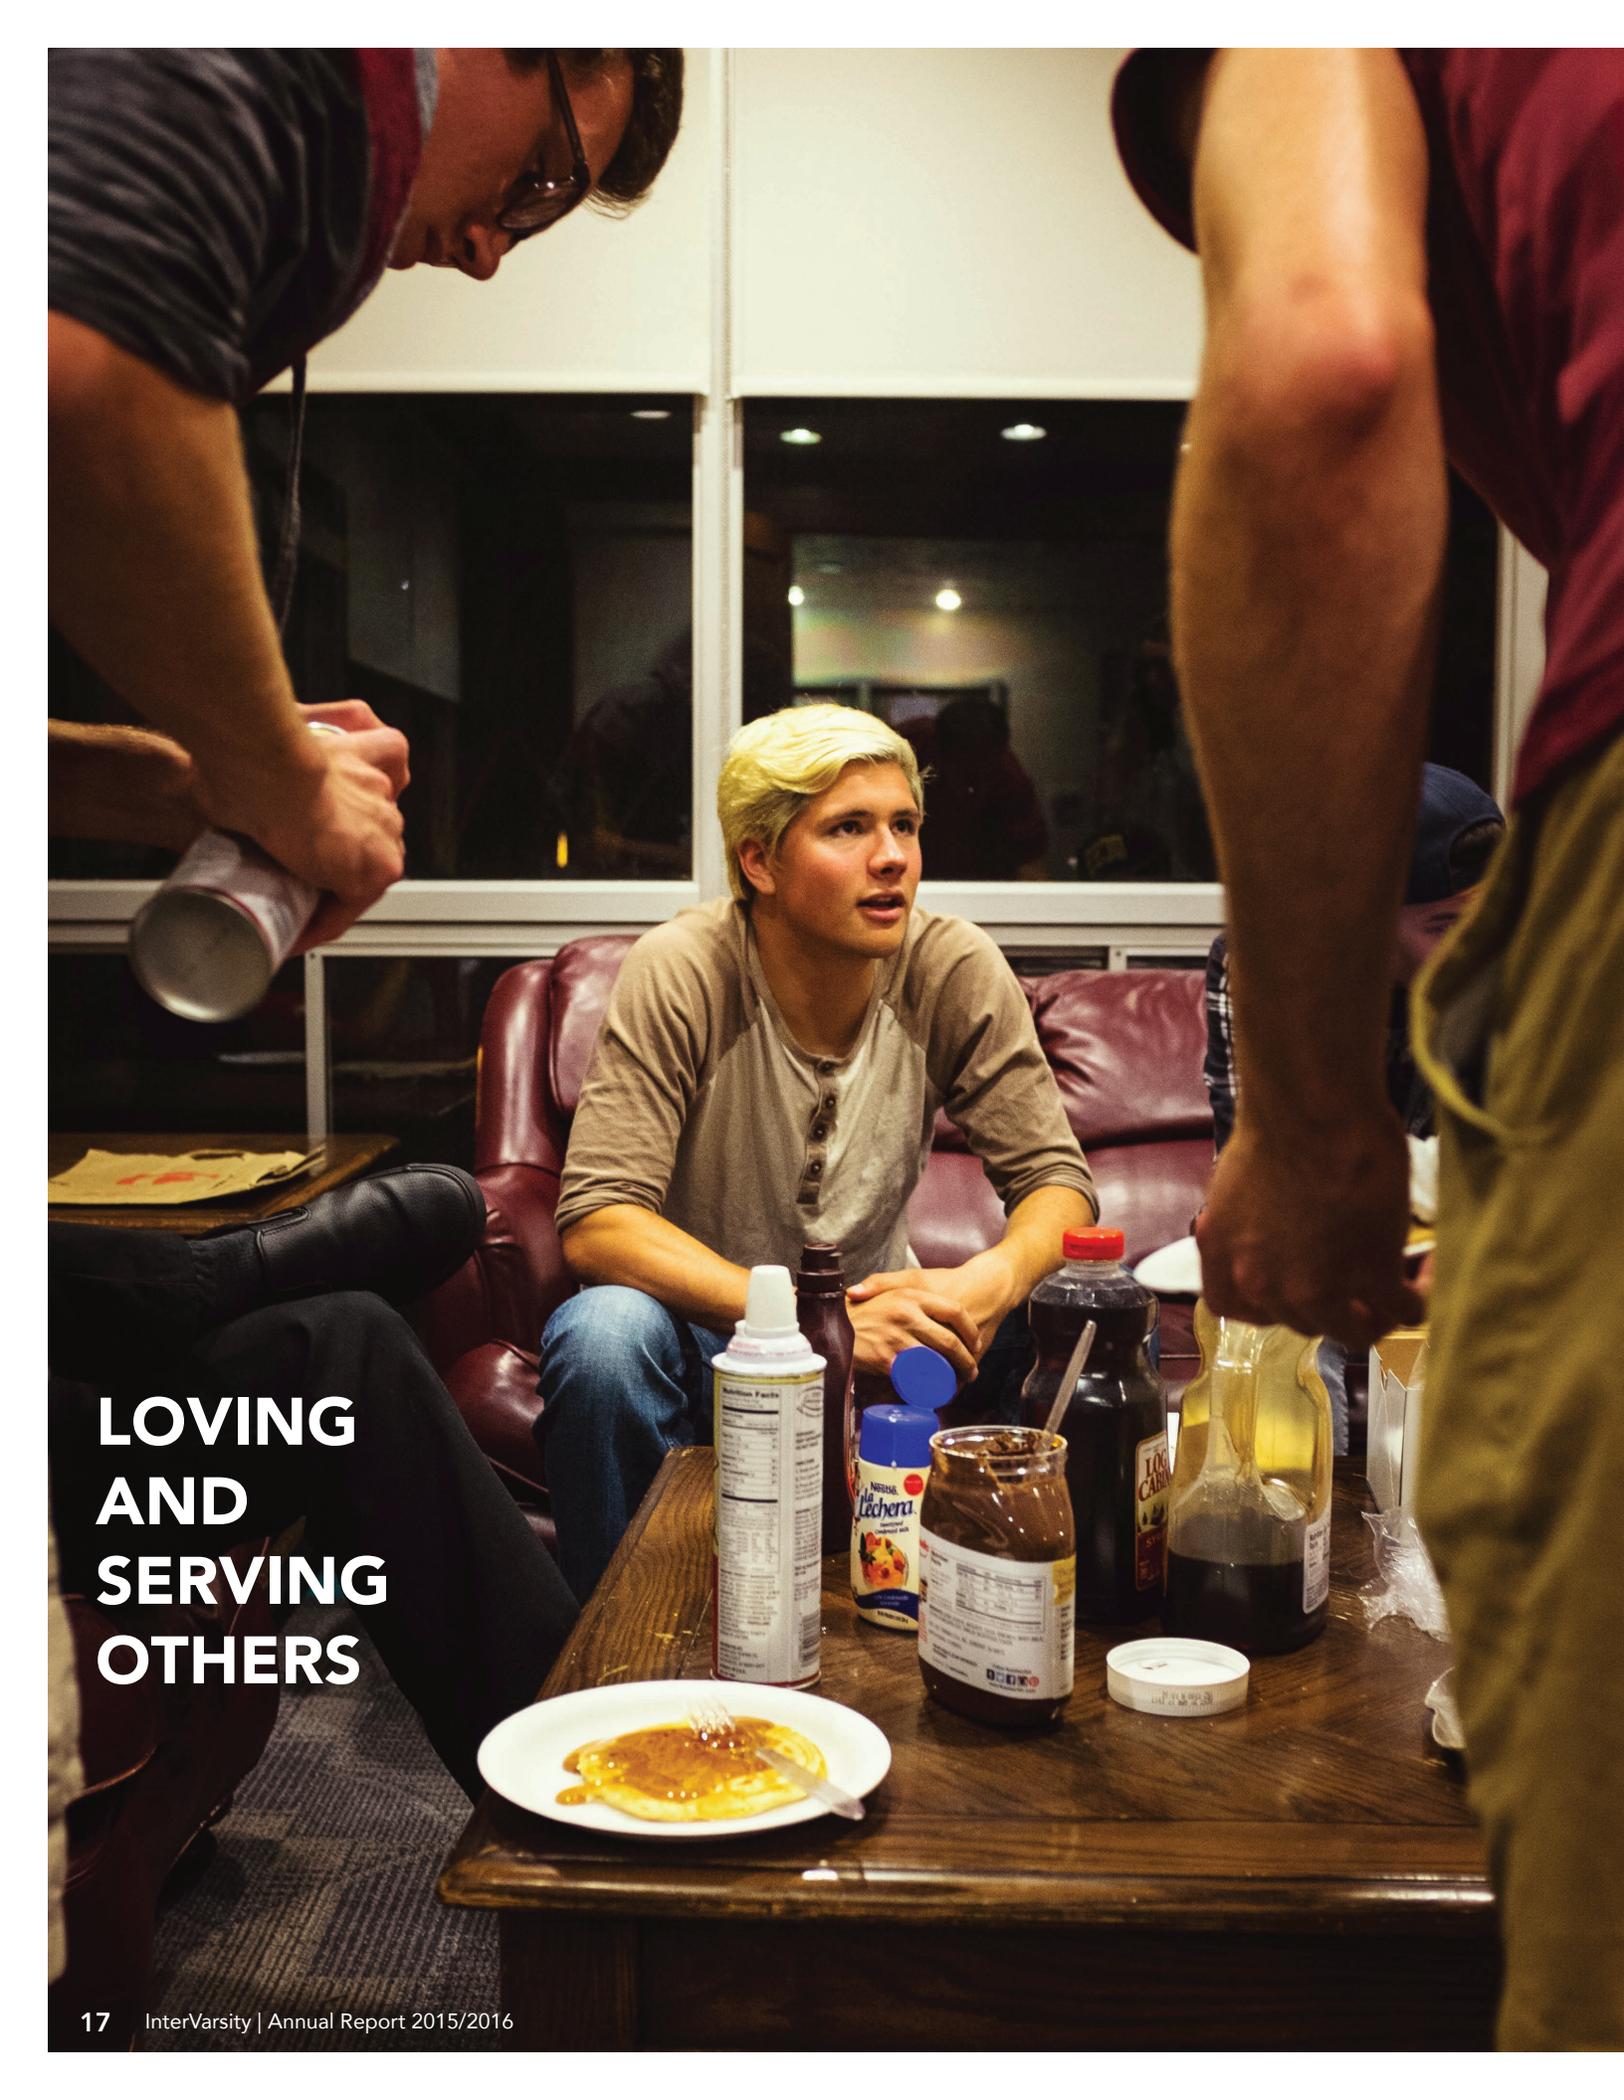

—Michelle Kim, large group leader, on her growth as a leader in InterVarsity

Matt and Michelle prepare for their large group gathering, a weekly event where their entire chapter and their friends can worship and hear God’s Word.

REACHING STUDENTS FROM EVERY CORNER OF THE CAMPUS

LOVING
OTHERS

7,301 InterVarsity students have at least one cross-cultural friendship with the hope of sharing Christ.

---

“We really urge our students to displace themselves for Christ, whether that’s on a summer missions program where they can grow in discipleship and their cross-cultural witnessing skills, or going to a multicultural center event, or making a friend of a different ethnicity. There are lots of opportunities during the school year for students to take a risk and step out of their comfort zones, especially when they’re looking at their spheres of influence. We want them to really be intentional about seeking after people who are different from themselves and having intentional conversations about what it might mean to be a different ethnicity at UCSB.”

URBANA 15

9,344 commitments were made by participants to serve in global or cross-cultural missions.

---

Urbana 15, InterVarsity's 24th triennial student missions conference held in St. Louis, Missouri, in December 2015, was a landmark week in our year. Around 16,000 participants gathered to dive deeply into Matthew's Gospel, pray for the persecuted church, enter into truly multiethnic worship, and learn from global leaders like Dr. Patrick Fung, director of OMF International and our expositor for the week. Throughout the conference, the theme "What Story Will You Tell?" continually challenged participants to listen to God's call on their lives and surrender their gifts, dreams, and fields of study to him, for the sake of his great global mission.
